To His Excellency, William Owsley.

Governor of Kentucky: The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, (two-thirds of both Houses concurring in this address) would respectfully state and charge. that George W. Konns, a Justice of the Peace in and for Carter county, then in commission, was, on or about the first of May, 1541, in said county of Carter, guilty of illicit intercourse with one Ellen McCormack, of the age of 14 or 15, then and at that time an inmate of the lamily of said Kouns, and having no mother living, she being claimed by him as his bound girl or apprentice, thereby offending against morality and decency, and the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth; and, that the said Geo. W. Kouns issued an attachment, received the money thereon, and failed or refused to pay the same over when properly demanded, thereby offending against the dignity of the Commonwealth: wherefore, Resolved. That the said George W. Kouns be removed from his office of Justice of the Peace by the Governor of this Commanwealth.

Several years ago she had emigrated to the West with her husband and five children, in hopes of bettering their condition. Their hopes had been disappointed-sickness had entered their cabin-the resolution offered by the select committee; and the husband and father was carried off by one of the fedefendant, George W. Kouns, spoke a short time in vers of the climate, and the children, one by one, is own defence.

Mr. J. SMITH, [of Breckinridge,] moved the by the hand alone remained. When all was over, she sold the little property that remained, and with Mr. HUGHES moved a call of the roll: ordered, her boy began, on foot, their melancholy journey, back to their native place at Cape Ann. "But," she said, 'we do not want food, nor clothes, nor money, we only ask for shelter for the night."

The lady felt that this was a cause in which she night rather to risk the displeasure of her laishend than send the strangers away. Accordingly she led them into the house, and while the bed was preparing she nrged them to eat, but they both refused food, and as soon as their bed was ready, they retired, and soon fell asleep.

When the master of the house returned and heard what had happened, he exclaimed angrily: "They shall not stay here-inv father never would cannot stay here-I cannot have you here." The woman raised her eyes with a look of silent espair, but the little boy, with a nervous agulation, painfully different from the motions of a happy, healthy child, sprang from the bed clasping his thin hands together, fell on his knees and cried out, in a shrill, imploring tone, "O, sir! don't turn us out this dark night! we are tired almost to death. O, lo let us stay till davlight."

The gentlemen relensed at the appeal, and turning to his wife, said, "If you choose to give up your night's rest for the sake of their staying, ! have no objections, but you must watch them all the while." The lady willingly consented, and soothing the little boy, sent him back to bed. She then took a seat in the neighboring room, and prepared to fulfil her promise, by watching them all night. The strangers slept heavily, but not quelly. The poor woman groaned often, and murinured in her sleep, of many sorrows. Once or twice, she said.

with a deep sigh, "Well! well! my heart is breaking, but the Lord is good." * In after years, that lady was called to endure has after loss, and trial after trial, until her heart was almost crushed within her; but aften when she was ready to sink in despair, the sleeping words of that unknown widow came home to her heart, and brought strength and comfort, and she felt berself richly repaid for a sleepless night, when she had learned to say, "Well! well! my heart is breaking, but the Lord is good."

Poor unknown woman! if you are still an inhabitant of this world-if the Physician has healed your breaking heart, know that your words unconsciously snoken, have often strengthened the spirit of a widow almost as desolate as yourself, and in return she now longs to tell you what she has since learn-If we truly know and acknowledge that the Lord is good, our hearts will never break, but grow stronger and stronger under trials.

WAR FOR OREGON .- It has been suggested in distinguished quarters that the Territory of Oregon is worthless. It has also been said on both sides of the Atlantic that the territory cannot long be governed either from Westminster or Washington; but that it will require a separate government of its own. If either of these assertions be true, a war, in this 115. An act to authorize the Chairmen of standing and age of civilization, to determine the title to Oregon, will be "monstrous" and "runpious" beyond any wager of battle in history. The following verses from an ancient newspaper will fifty illustrate the folly of both nations that engage in it. - Boston Daily Advertiser.

CLUMPY and Clod, two surly clowns.

As reeling home one night From alchouse, where their sappy crowns They'd soak'd in sad'ning plight, While all the azure-tipled sky White all the azure-tinted sky
Spread out its clear expanse,
And all the glittering print on high
Seem'd over their heads to dance—
Quoth Chump to Clod. "Ittell thee what!
"I only wish that I
"As much good pastine land had got
"As I can see blue sky."
"And I "quoth Clodto Clump, "should like
"Thy wish to beat by far,
"And have, to prove a wealthier tyke,
"An ox for every star."
"Ah, but," says Clump, "to veed them all
"What pasture could be vound?"
"Enough," says Clod, "vor great and small:
"I'd veed them on thy ground."
"What' and without my leave?" says Clump,
"What' and without my leave?" says Clump, "Hu wed them on thy ground."
"What 'and without my leave?" says Clump,
"Ay, that I would," says Cloddy.
Quoth Clump, "then thee my hide shall thump,
"Or I will thump thy body,"
So to't they went, both Clump and Clod,
As fast as fist could tag,
Till both lay sprawling on the sod,
And scarce a fist could wag;
"Now where's your oven, Clod?" says Clump,
"And where," says Clod, "your ground?"
Both sight'd, and, carcase rais'd on rump,
In vain for both look'd round:
Then, shaking hands, they cursed all jars,
And all deceiving eyes And all deceiving eyes
That looked for oxen in the stars,
And pasture from the skies.

and so indispensable in beautifying and finishing a miniature portrait in good taste.

A favorable opportunity is now offered to the ladies and gentlemen of Frankfort and vicinity, to obtain Miniature Portraits in the mest perfect style of execution, which for life like beauty, distinctness and accuracy, are acknowledged to be mequalled. Mr. Boswed has opened his Gallery at the corner of Main and Ann streets, over the Drug store of W. L. Crutcher, near the Weisiger House, where he is prepared to receive ladies and zentlemen to take their likenesses in any kind of weather by affording hin from ten to sixty seconds sitting. None need now hesitate in consequence of the heretofire objection to Baznerreotypes, viz. dimness of the cyes and imperfection of colors. Mr. B., by his late improvements, pledges himself to give the cyes and hair perfect with all their brightness and colors. Perfect likenesses are warranted and satisfaction given before any charge is made. Mr. Bowell is prepared to give instructions in his late improvements, which are unequalled, and warrants all of his miniature portraits to remain for ages unfaded.

Ladies and gentlemen are respectfully invited to call and examine specimens.
